

Professional Organiser

I'm Narelle King, the founder of Simply Happy supporting families to create a clutter-free, functional and happy life. I'm a Professional Organiser and yoga teacher with an Education background. As a mum formally identified as neurodivergent and through my work supporting other neurodivergent families and children like my own, I know first-hand the challenges.

I'm a member of the Institute of Professional Organisers International and the Victorian Institute of Teaching. I've had a podcast, Simply Happy Conversations, since 2021 that's a mix of solo and guest episodes sharing actionable takeaways to simplify their life and create a more organised home.

I work with

I specialise in working with neurodivergent families using neuro-affirming practices that accommodate the client's needs. I help individuals and families with organisational challenges implement simple organisational strategies to create a clutter-free, safe, functional and happy home.

I also work with individuals or families who need assistance with

- decluttering and organising to make the home safe and functional
- establishing systems to implement in their home
- packing, moving and unpacking for a move
- rearranging furniture to cater for a disability or sensory need
- administration tasks and setting up a streamlined system
- downsizing or simplifying life

Professional Organiser
